An aerial photograph of a tropical beach. The water is a vibrant turquoise color, transitioning to a lighter, sandy hue near the shore. A person is seen swimming in the shallow water. The beach is composed of light-colored sand and some darker rocks or coral fragments. The overall scene is serene and idyllic.

Elysian is an all-inclusive retreat providing guests daily with gourmet breakfasts, al fresco or picnic lunches and 3 course wine matched dinners.

On arrival guests will meet with Executive Chef, Cody McKavanagh to discuss taste preferences and dietary requirements.

The daily changing menu is inspired by the natural surroundings of Long Island and the Whitsundays, using the freshest/organic seasonal produce sourced from the Island's own vegetable garden and from nearby surrounding farming regions.

Fresh prawns, Moreton Bay bugs, tropical rock lobsters and award winning Artherton Table Lands cheese are just some of local delicacies sourced from local fisherman or suppliers.

Nestled at the southern point of Long Island in the Whitsundays Elysian retreat is located on a three hectare private cove, surrounded by rainforest and all the magnificence of the Great Barrier Reef.

The island itself is 9 km long and only 400m wide at its widest point and is mostly national park with kilometres of walking trails to explore the plentiful native flora and fauna.
